Case Report Contest

by Bentley

Annex 1: Terms and Conditions

With submitting a case report to Bentley, the submitter agrees on the following case report conditions:

1. General remarks

The submitter agrees on the following conditions on the provision of the case report and confirms that the clinic (employer) has agreed on the submission of this case report and its use as set forth in the approval form. The submitter provides Bentley InnoMed GmbH ("Bentley") with a copy of the clinic's approval (applicable for: D, FR, I, GB, AU, SUI).

The case report shall fulfil the following criteria:

- Anonymized case report with Bentley product in focus
- English, A4, max. 500 words (excluding references)
- 3-5 images
- Complete and consistent structure: patient history, treatment, follow up, conclusion

The submitter confirms that he / she is entitled to provide the case report to Bentley and that the case report does not violate third party rights. Bentley herewith confirms that it will not supplement, change, or otherwise revise the case report provided and / or instruct the submitter to revise the same. Bentley will use the case report for internal regulatory purposes (e.g., post-market surveillance). The submitter complies with all applicable laws and obtained all necessary permits / consents required by it for the performance and provision of the case report. The submitter hereby transfers its rights with respect to the case report to Bentley. If and to the extent that such a transfer is not legally possible, the submitter hereby grants to Bentley the exclusive, irrevocable, transferable, sub-licensable, unrestricted, and worldwide rights to utilize the case report as stated herein and otherwise agreed with Bentley.

Bentley and the submitter confirm that these conditions have been agreed without reference to and independent from any sales transactions and procurement decisions. Bentley shall be entitled to disclose the cooperation with the submitter if required for compliance reasons.

The agreement and use of the case report as agreed is conditioned upon the receipt of the approval of the same by the submitter's employee / clinic (if applicable). This agreement is subject to German law. If the physician is not subject to the general jurisdiction of the courts in Germany, the court at the registered office of Bentley shall have jurisdiction.

2. Contest Conditions

The submitter agrees to participate in the case report contest as explained below:

- The case reports will be provided to the EVC (<https://vascular-course.com/>) by Bentley on an anonymized basis.
- The EVC faculty board will evaluate the case reports and inform Bentley respectively about the best three case reports that were submitted. Bentley will then disclose to the EVC the name of the submitters winning the contest who will then be informed by the EVC in its own responsibility. To this extent, the submitter agrees with the disclosure of its personal data to EVC.
- There is no legal entitlement to the prize.

The Award

- The winners will be invited to the next annual EVC course. Exact time and place of such course will be communicated to the winner as soon as possible.
- The award covers travel expenses, accommodation and EVC participant registration, based on the conditions of EVC.
- The winner (1st place) has the possibility to present and discuss the submitted case with an EVC faculty member in front of an audience within the EVC program.

3. Marketing Conditions

The submitter hereby confirms that the case report may also be used and published (print and/or digital) by Bentley for marketing purposes (e.g., publication on LinkedIn or further social media platforms). The submitter also agrees to have the name, employee (clinic) and city stated on the publication.

Bentley will inform the submitter in advance if the case report will be used for marketing purposes and specify the intended purpose.

Data protection

Personal data will only be processed, passed on and stored to the extend necessary for the purposes of the Case Report Contest and the use of the case report in compliance with the published conditions. The legal basis for each processing purpose is the consent of the submitter, which can be revoked separately at any time with effect for the future.

Further obligatory information on data protection can be found for Bentley at <https://www.bentley.global/data-protection> and for the European Vascular Course (EVC) at <https://vascular-course.com/privacy.php>
